You will be asked to provide information about your submission, including author information and a summary.

Please have all co-author contact information available before you continue, including affiliation, address, telephone, and email.

Following the submission, SPIE will send the contact person an e-mail asking that they view and approve the submission. Once the contact person approves the submission, the submission moves to the review process.

Tell us who you are:

The author will cut/paste the abstract (from the manuscript) in the spaces provided.

Abstract Text may be used for Technical Review Purposes:*

Manuscript abstracts should be approximately 250 words. Please submit your full manuscript (6-12 pages in length) in the next step of this submission.

In this paper, we theoretically investigate the THz detection in nonresonant Fresnel phase matching GaAs crystal. According to calculation, the method will contribute to increase the conversion efficiency and tunability of the THz detection. And compared with the traditional QPM (quasi-phase-match) condition, the difficult processing of the multiple-bonded, orientation-patterned GaAs plates can be ignored. All of these give a possible option to achieve sensitive, broad tunable, low-repetition Terahertz detection.
